More from New Yorkers for Life about Assisted Suicide – There are increasing financial incentives to limit care. Assisted suicide is far less expensive than palliative and supported care at the end of life. As insurance companies and governments seek to reduce health care spending, will they promote this option in order to reduce expenses and liability? In Oregon, some patients noted that lethal doses of drugs were covered by their insurer while cancer treatments were not. While advocates call assisted suicide “free choice,” what kind of choice is it when life is expensive but death is free?

On May 10th, New York State legislature had assisted suicide bills placed before it to consider!! Please contact your legislators – Senator Terrence Murphy at 518-455-3111 and Assemblyman Steve Katz at 518-455-5783.
